Computer Technology Group

The Computer Technology Group meets on the first Wednesday of each month and explores a selected topic. If there is time, the group discusses our current technological issues and their solutions. In May we looked at tips and pitfalls of online shopping, including those from overseas sites. We looked at the range of photo files on Android and Apple devices and storage services. Also, a member reported on her efforts to convert slides to a digital form. The Hamilton Central City Library has a scanner, with library staff available for support, but it's still not an easy system to navigate. At present the group is full. Carol Carr
